Joni Sundquist Named New Nebraska CPA Society President

Joni Sundquist of Lincoln has been named the new President/Executive Director of the Nebraska Society of CPAs. Ryan Parker, Society Chairman of the Board, made the announcement this morning.

Sundquist is currently Senior Vice President of Communications & External Affairs for the Nebraska Bankers Association in Lincoln. She has been with the Bankers Association for nearly 21 years. She will replace Dan Vodvarka of Lincoln who is retiring after leading the CPA Society for over 28 years. Sundquist is scheduled to begin her leadership duties with the Society on July 2, 2018.

She graduated magna cum laude from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln with a degree in broadcast journalism and worked in the publishing industry before joining the Bankers Association in 1997. Very active in community and professional organizations, Sundquist is a past President of the Nebraska Society of Association Executives and is a graduate of Leadership Nebraska.

Chairman Parker said, “Joni is an energetic leader with a vision that will propel our great profession and Society forward for years to come. As someone that has worked extensively in communications during her professional career, I know that Joni will be an outstanding advocate for our members.”

“I am honored to be selected as the next President/Executive Director of the Nebraska Society of CPAs,” said Sundquist. “I look forward to working with the Society leadership and staff to help position our members and the profession for continued growth and success in our state.”

Founded in 1928, the Nebraska Society of Certified Public Accountants, with over 2,600 members statewide, is the premier professional association for CPAs in Nebraska with its office in Lincoln. For more information contact Dan Vodvarka at 402-476-8482 or vod@nescpa.org.
